

Invasive Species Symposium

May 13, 2005

1-5 PM

Michigan State University

Lectures: 1415 Biomedical and Physical Sciences

1 PM Economics and Invasive Species

Dr. Jason Shogren

Stroock Distinguished Professor of Natural Resource Conservation & Management

Department of Economics and Finance

University of Wyoming

2 PM What will it take to defeat biological invasions? And how much can biologists help?

Dr. Daniel Simberloff

Nancy Gore Hunger Professor of Environmental Science

Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology

University of Tennessee

Poster session: Biomedical and Physical Sciences, Library Atrium

3-5 PM Poster session: Posters are invited from MSU
students and faculty with two cash prizes offered for the best student posters.

To register:

Please e-mail (subject line: Symposium Registration) your name, departmental affiliation and phone number to Angela Jernstadt (jernsta2@msu.edu; 517-355-4663).

Poster presenters should include titles and authors names, and indicate if you are an MSU student.

Sponsored by:

College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, College of Natural Science, Office of the Provost, Environmental Science and Policy
Program, Department of Entomology, Department of Plant Biology.